Rhema Release Media, LLC Releases Book on Domestic Violence by Carolyn Spellman

Charlotte, NC – Rhema Release Media, LLC is proud to announce the release of Battered, Bruised, and Broken: Healing Domestic Violence In The Church, a powerful new book by Carolyn Spellman. Studies show that on any given Sunday a significant number of people sitting in the pews in churches are victims of domestic abuse. This prolific book is about bringing inner healing both spiritually and emotionally to all members of families who have or are living through domestic violence. God is concerned about the health and restoration of families everywhere. Battered is the woman, bruised is the man, and broken are the children until healing occurs. In Battered, Bruised, and Broken, Spellman discusses strategies for instituting needed healing and restoration to families plagued by domestic abuse. She offers practical steps that individuals and families can take to better their situation. An additional aspect of the book is its emphasis on how the local church can help the healing process by employing strategies that empower and educate members of the community- teaching them to solve the widespread problem.

Spellman comments from first-hand experience as she was reared in an abusive household. Copies of the book can be purchased from www.rhemarelease.org. For interviews with the author contact Yalonda Haywood at 704-587-3980 or boldchurch@bellsouth.net
